

Ace Card Held By Communists In Truce Deal

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—That the Communists wanted truce in Korea was apparent. But why they wanted it, and what they hoped to get out of it, can only be guessed at.

Because they hold North Korea, they have an ace card in the diplomatic poker game—the peace talks—which begin within 90 days of the signing of the truce.

Unity To Be Costly
The United States and the United Nations want both parts of Korea unified. What they couldn't make the Chinese yield by force they will now ask the Chinese to give up by request.

The Chinese could hardly be expected to grant it unless they get in return something they prized more than North Korea. In Washington there has been a belief that the Chinese might agree to unification of Korea if, among other things, they were admitted to membership in the United Nations.

But this country, backing Nationalist China, which is a U.N. member, has consistently opposed membership for Red China. Both houses of Congress have expressed opposition to such a move. Secretary of State Dulles has said the question of Red China's membership in the U.N. has no place in the peace talks about Korea.

Reds Outnumbered
Since there can be no unification of Korea until the Chinese—and the United Nations—withdraw their troops from all Korea, the peace talks could limit themselves to the question of withdrawal only. After the foreign troops leave, the Koreans—North and South—could hold a national election to choose a single government. But this by itself is such a complicated problem that solution of it seems unlikely soon.

For one thing, the South Koreans far outnumber the North Koreans now. If the election were between the forces of South Korean President Syngman Rhee and pro-Communist North Koreans, there wouldn't be much doubt about the outcome.

What would be the fate of those North Korean Communists who had been faithful allies of Red China and enemies of South Korea? If China abandoned its Korean Communist allies to the mercies of South Korea it would lose face with its Communist friends in the rest of Asia. It could, of course, give the Korean Communists asylum in China.

Eventually these Korean Reds could filter back into Korea, set up an underground, and work for the overthrow of Rhee or, after his death, of his friends in control of the government.

Farmer Income Off 5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP)—The agriculture Department reported today that farm income during the first half of this year was down 5 per cent from a year ago. It totaled $12,600,000,000.

Farmers sold more crops and livestock and livestock products than during the first half of last year, but prices averaged 10 per cent lower.

Receipts from livestock and livestock products totaled $8,200,000,000 or a reduction of 8 per cent from a year ago. Most of this decline was due to lower prices for cattle and calves. Crop receipts in the first six months totaled $4,400,000,000, about the same as in 1952.

The department said the decline in farm income from a year ago has been getting larger month by month. In June, for example, receipts were down 13 per cent from the corresponding month last year.

Meanwhile, the department predicted that the combined production of crops and livestock this year may be about the same as in the 1952 record. The agency's July crop report indicated that crop output may be the third largest of record. Production of livestock and livestock products are likely to be the largest of record.

Marines Peek At Red Siren But She Should Have Stayed At Home

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

WESTERN FRONT, Korea—American Marines today got their first look at the Red Dragon Lady, the Communist siren with a loudspeaker.

She should have stayed at home. The Dragon Lady and a troupe of Chinese entertainers came out on a front-line outpost hill and staged a show for the Marines a few hundred yards away.

Moon-Faced Girl
The Dragon Lady has been making front-line broadcasts for months. There may be more than one Dragon Lady doing the same thing along the front but the Marines have been hearing her regularly, singing Korean and Chinese songs and making propaganda broadcasts.

She had never been seen by Allied troops, so when she appeared this morning in the open, broadcasting with a microphone from the small hill, Marines dived for telescopes and field glasses.

They saw a slight, moon-faced girl dressed in a very faded khaki uniform. She wore a slouch cap pulled down over her long straight black hair.

Voice Is O. K.
Her shoes were the regulation canvas and rubber shoes worn by ordinary soldiers. If she had any glamour the Marines couldn't see it.

The Marines have another name for her but use the term Dragon Lady in polite society.

The Dragon Lady appeared to be about 21 years old. She was hardly five feet tall and her figure remained a mystery beneath her shapeless uniform.

She sang several Korean and Chinese songs in a soft, pleasant voice.

Battle Casualty Lists In Korea Not Ended Yet

WASHINGTON (AP)—American families will be hearing for several days to come of men killed, wounded or missing in Korea, even though the fighting ceased Monday morning.

The public will be reading the names of battle casualties in newspapers two or three weeks from now.

These delays are products of the military system which stresses accuracy above all else in dealing with human lives and of the official insistence that the families concerned must be the first to hear that anything has happened to their sons, husbands or brothers.

Total In 10 Days
The average lag between the occurrence of a casualty on a field of battle and the receipt of the formal notification by his next of kin ranges from three to five days.

Such reports are first checked and rechecked in the unit to which the man was attached and then are relayed to the appropriate headquarters in Washington. Here formal telegrams are prepared and sent to the families, giving brief details and, in case the man is wounded, telling his next of kin where they can write to him.

A tentative battle casualty total for the Korean War will not be available for perhaps 10 days. The casualty reporting and publication system calls first for notification to the families. Thereafter, usually on Wednesdays, the Pentagon has issued a battle casualty summary based upon the numbers of official notifications to next of kin through the previous Friday.

Reports Delayed
Last Wednesday the cumulative total of casualties reported in the summary was 139,272. During the last 24 hours of the fighting in Korea, the Pentagon received reports of about 240 million dollars.

Two of the chief opponents have been Walter and Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), co-authors of the comprehensive immigration bill passed last year over ex-President Truman's veto.

Postal Raise Blocked
Just one other item on the "must" list appears to be in trouble, and in such serious difficulties that House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) said Monday passage is doubtful. That is the administration's request for postal rate hikes of about 240 million dollars a year.

That measure has been blocked in the House Post Office Committee, which arranged another closed session today to consider it. The Senate has taken no action. If the GOP leadership should press it, the proposal might force Congress to delay adjournment.

German Mushrooms Speeded To America For Tumor Research
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Special mushrooms picked at dawn near the German-Czech frontier were rushed today by plane to the United States for medical research.

The 5-pound shipment is bound for the University of Michigan for use in development of a serum against malignant tumors, the U. S. Air Force said.

The mushrooms have to be as fresh as possible. They were picked and loaded dew-fresh into a helicopter which took them to Erding Air Base in Bavaria for transfer to a U. S.-bound Navy aircraft.

Truman's Resignation
Davis' resignation was announced June 10 by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The ruling which the Tribune said Truman had sought was not the same as that which allowed President Eisenhower a tax savings on income from his book, "Crusade in Europe."

Eisenhower was allowed to pay a 25 per cent capital gains tax, rather than an income tax on a graduated scale, on proceeds from his memoirs as supreme allied commander in Western Europe in World War II. The ruling saved him almost $400,000 in taxes as the book brought him a gross income of about one million dollars.

The ruling under which Eisenhower benefited was outlawed shortly after the decision in the general's case.

Truman's plea to the Internal Revenue Service was prepared by Samuel L. Rosenman, former White House aide, the Tribune said. Rosenman is handling legal details of the publication of Truman's memoirs.

Many consumers complain about the taste of the dried product.

The Quartermaster Food and Container Institute for the armed forces has already ordered trial shipments of "thermo-stabilized" eggs from two packers. The products will be subjected to tests under Dr. Donald K. Tressler, scientific director of the Institute.

Two types of treated eggs have been ordered. Swift & Co. is producing whole shell eggs which it pasteurizes and seals with oil in its plant at Worthington, Minn.

The other product is whole egg solids—that is, the complete whites and yolks without the shells, stabilized by the thermal process—which are being produced by Armour & Co. at Springfield, Mo.

The quartermaster experts are working with Swift and Armour development staffs on methods of removing sugar, the egg component most responsible for early spoilage.

One-Day Any-Deer Hunt Sought This Fall In Michigan

LANSING (AP)—A one-day "any deer" season this fall will be recommended to the State Conservation Commission at its meeting Aug. 6-7 at Higgins Lake.

Game chief Harry D. Ruhl will propose that Nov. 30, the last day of the regular Nov. 15-30 firearm season, be set aside for taking does and fawns as well as bucks north of highway M-55.

Ruhl has recommended the archery season be fixed for Oct. 1-Nov. 5, except in Allegan County, where an Oct. 1-Dec. 15 season is proposed. Legally, archers may take any deer except in Chippewa and Menominee counties.

These other developments punctuated the first full day of the Korean armistice.

1. Allied and Red forces began pulling back about 1 1/4 miles from the battlefield to create a 2 1/2-mile-wide buffer zone. They blew up front-line fortifications. The U. N. also began evacuating key islands off both North Korean coasts.

South Korean President Syngman Rhee said he had been given "full guarantee" the 16 United Nations which fought in the Korean War "are determined to fight with us jointly" against any new Red aggression. Rhee made the statement to his nation in explaining what he termed "a new policy of not obstructing a truce."

Neutral Officers Arrive
3. Polish and Czech officers reportedly were traveling from Peiping, the Red China capital, to Panmunjom, where they will take up posts on the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission. Swiss and Swedish delegates, now in Tokyo, were due within 48 hours. The commission will police the truce.

The U. N. Command began moving North Korean and Chinese prisoners to the mainland from Koje and Cheju islands off South Korea. About 3,600 Koreans and 1,200 Chinese were in the first group.

Precautions were being taken to head off possible Red demonstrations.

Heavier Draft Calls Foreseen
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Draft-eligible men are only "kidding themselves" if they think the Korean truce will change their status, the nation's selective service director says.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey predicted in a news conference Monday that 18-year-olds, fathers and present 4Fs will be drafted within a year due to a manpower shortage.

He warned that the monthly draft quota may be doubled in that period.

Hershey said the armed forces have been drawing for three years on a pool of men accumulated between World War II and the Korean War. He said that reserve will be gone next year.

Reds Will Free 400 Men Daily At Panmunjom

MUNSAN (AP)—The Allies and Communists agreed today to start exchanging almost 87,000 prisoners of war Aug. 5 and the joint Military Armistice Commission set in motion machinery for enforcing the day-old Korean armistice.

Once the long-awaited prisoner exchange gets under way, the Reds will free about 400 men daily at Panmunjom. The U. N. Command said it will deliver about 2,760 daily, including 300 sick and wounded.

Troops Pull Back
Detailed prisoner exchange plans were adopted by the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange as five different truce bodies gathered in Panmunjom.

These other developments punctuated the first full day of the Korean armistice.

Thousands Of Hungry East Germans Fed By West As Reds Rave

By DON DOANE
BERLIN (AP)—More than 100,000 hungry East Germans swarmed into West Berlin to pick up free Western food today in a mass demonstration of communism's failure to feed its own people.

They began lining up at dawn. The crowds grew by the hour. By mid-afternoon it looked as if the turnout would exceed the 120,000 fed Monday when the relief program backed by a 15 million dollar United States donation began. The 2-day total approached the 250,000 mark.

Before it ends in two weeks, the plan is expected to give parcels to more than a million East Germans.

Long Train Rides
Red propagandists shrilled in embarrassment rage but the Communists did not interfere.

Except for an occasional check to keep the people nervous, Red border police let them return unhindered through the Iron Curtain with their precious gifts.

They came by the tens of thousands from far out in the Soviet zone. Many obviously got up in the middle of the night and made long train rides which cost them more than the five marks ($1.19) worth of food they were given.

Thousands of volunteers worked through the night making up the relief packages of fat, flour, dried vegetables and canned milk.

The program was begun with supplies taken from the reserves West Berlin has built up against any repeat of the 1948-49 Soviet blockade.

America's donation began arriving Monday, however, to replace the stocks given away. Two plane-loads and one shipload already have landed, and more is on the way.

First Red POWs Start For Home And Make Trouble

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—The first of 74,300 Communist prisoners of war started their homeward journey today.

The U. N. POW Command began moving the first group of 2,400 Red POWs to Inchon harbor near Seoul.

There was no word from Peiping and Pyongyang when the Reds will start moving south to Panmunjom about 12,400 Allied POWs.

The prisoner exchange is to start Aug. 5.

Col. Richard Boerem, deputy chief of the POW Command, said about 150 Chinese officers delayed the departure from Cheju by refusing to leave their compound this morning. They were sprayed with vomiting and tear gas and gave in shortly, Boerem said.

Boerem estimated it would take only 30 days, if conditions are perfect, to give all Communist POWs back—half of the time allowed by the armistice agreement.

Sen. Taft Not Doing So Well
NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's physical condition "has deteriorated," New York Hospital announced today.

The Ohio Republican recently underwent an exploratory operation of the abdominal wall to investigate a hip ailment.

The announcement was the first that did not take an optimistic view of his condition.

It had been announced last week that he would return to Washington on Wednesday. A statement from the hospital Monday said only that his departure would be delayed.

"Sen. Taft's condition has deteriorated somewhat during the last 24 hours," the hospital bulletin said today.

"He is responding less well to treatment and is not taking food satisfactorily."

History Repeated
NEW YORK (AP)—History repeated itself Monday for the Carman family.

Warner Carman, 21, was inducted into the Army as a cease-fire was ordered in Korea after the signing of a truce.

His father was inducted into the Army Nov. 11, 1918—Armistice Day of World War I.

They came, they said, because they couldn't buy the food in their Communist-run home food stores with any amount of money. It simply wasn't there.

Crop Quotas Flop
Their fertile area used to produce most of the food for all Germany. Communism's program of collective farming and forced crop quotas plainly had failed. Thousands of farmers have fled to the West in fear and disgust. East German authorities have had to admit they can't even find enough farm workers to bring in this year's harvest.

Several new relief centers were added today to the 35 in operation Monday as officials tried to speed the parcel distribution and avoid

2 Polio Cases Reported Here, First in '53

Two Escanaba polio cases—the first since the epidemic which afflicted 68 here last year—were reported to the Delta-Menominee Health Department.

One of the youngsters, John Steinway, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis H. Steinway, 1115 S. 9th Ave., is in St. Luke's Hospital in Marquette. He was admitted at midnight Monday.

The other case is Rosemary Patricia McInerney, 6, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas A. McInerney, 1029 S. 13th St. She has a stiff neck, the health department reports. The McInerney youngster is being treated at home.

The Steinway boy became ill Friday, with fever and sore throat, his mother reports. Friday some paralysis of the right leg appeared, and he now also has some weakness of the left arm, she states. He was taken to the Marquette hospital by ambulance last night.

Two household contacts of the McInerney girl this morning were administered gamma globulin. This blood derivative is used to give passive immunity against polio for 4-6 weeks.

Two polio cases also have been reported in Menominee and several in Marquette. The U. P. polio caseload to date totals 33.

Upper Michigan Briefs

MARQUETTE—An Alger County girl was stricken with polio and taken to St. Luke's Hospital today, bringing the Upper Peninsula incidence total to 33.

No new cases have been reported for Marquette County, and the polio case load for the county remains 26.

It is the second case from Alger County, Gogebic County has had two cases, Baraga County one, Chippewa County one and Luce County one.

IRONWOOD—An important meeting of the M-28 Improvement Association has been scheduled for Wednesday evening, Aug. 5, at Bergland, Chairman Clemens Nordine, Kenton, announces.

The meeting will be held in the Bergland High School gymnasium, starting at 7:30 p. m. (CST).

Nordine said all persons interested in the program of the association, which is dedicated to seeking improvement of highway M-28, are invited to attend the meeting.

MARQUETTE—Sheriffs from every county in the state are arriving to attend the annual Michigan Sheriffs' Association convention, headquarters for which are in the Hotel Northland.

Attendance at the three-day convention is expected to total about 200, including families of delegates. Registration was held this morning, and separate ladies and men's luncheons were served in the Hotel Northland this Tuesday noon.

MARINETTE—W. Fred Coffey, 70, Marinette postmaster for the past eight and a half years, today announced his retirement effective July 31.

IRONWOOD—An unofficially estimated loss of over $200,000 resulted Saturday afternoon as fire destroyed 28 carloads of choice birch veneer panels in a Roddis Lumber & Veneer Co. warehouse here.

Fire Chief Ed Laitala said today the fire was caused by a bolt of lightning during the height of Saturday's electrical storm. This contention was confirmed, said Laitala, after several nails were found welded together by the tremendous heat generated by the lightning.

MARQUETTE—A six-year-old Ishpeming boy, one of the first to be inoculated with gamma globulin Wednesday morning, has been stricken with polio, and was taken to St. Luke's Hospital Saturday.

It's the 26th case for the county and the 32nd to the Upper Peninsula. Authorities said that the boy received the injection too late for the serum to be effective.

Two cases from out of the county—a four-year-old L'Anse boy and a nine-year-old Sault Ste. Marie girl—were admitted to St. Luke's Hospital as polio patients, boosting the out-county total to six cases this year.

Ironwood has had two cases, Munising and Newberry, one each.

Gladstone Youth Jailed For Theft

Robert Couillard, 18, of 574 N. 9th St., Gladstone, has been sentenced to 45 days in Delta County jail. He pleaded guilty Monday, before Justice A. T. Sahlberg in Gladstone, to a charge of stealing gasoline from the Fleming-Smith Bottling company in Escanaba. Couillard was arrested by Michigan State Police Monday.

The Indian Trail:

Scientists Seek Evidence Of Ancient Village Sites

Did the ancient ancestors of the American Indian have established community sites anywhere in Northern Michigan?

In an effort to find the answer to a question that has intrigued archaeologists for years, a retired engineer and his wife and a University of Michigan professor and his assistant are in Delta County today on an exploratory survey trip.

"What we seek is evidence that the Indian existed here 5,000 to 6,000 years ago. We can do this only by finding sites where he had established villages," said John Dimmick, Washington, D. C., sponsor of the survey and a retired engineer with a passion for his hobby of archaeology.

Search For Answer

Cruising in a 68-foot chartered power yacht, Papyrus, the party of four has so far this summer visited (and eliminated) a number of Northern Michigan areas in the search for an answer to the question.

Aboard are Mr. and Mrs. Dimmick, Dr. Albert C. Spaulding, curator of anthropology in the museum of anthropology and assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Michigan, and Bruce Powell, University of Michigan graduate student in anthropology.

Dr. Spaulding heads the survey that began June 14 when the Papyrus cleared from Detroit. He was assigned by the University of Michigan at the request of Dimmick, who as sponsor is financing the exploration.

The Papyrus docked at the Escanaba yacht basin after the party cruised the Michigan shore of Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

Visit Rapid River

They came here from Fayette and today are visiting old Indian village sites in the Rapid River area of Delta County in company with Werner Vietzke of Rapid River. Vietzke is directing the archaeologists to a little known site on a high ridge between the Tacosh and Whitefish Rivers.

"The way it was described to us by Mr. Vietzke, the site appears to be of the type we are seeking," said Dr. Spaulding.

Dimmick and Spaulding conferred with local persons with an interest in archaeology. Mrs. Murray Cole of Rapid River, Atty. William E. Anderson, John J. Mitchell and Clint Dunathan of Escanaba assisted the party by locating on a Delta County map the places where Indian artifacts have been found.

How will the survey party know that a site is really ancient and dates back 5,000 or 6,000 years?

U.P. Fair Plans Sale of Cattle

A fat stock show and sale for members of Future Farmers of America and 4-H clubs will be a feature of the Upper Peninsula State Fair on Friday, Aug. 21. Prizes totalling $1,000 have been offered for this event in addition to the profit earned on sale of stock.

In this contest production records must begin not later than Jan. 1, 1953. Each exhibitor must display a card showing production performance of his animal or animals as follows: beginning weight, finished weight, total gain, days on feed, rate of gain per day, feed cost per 100 pounds gain. The show and contests will start at 10 a. m. in the show ring Friday, Aug. 21. A grading contest will be held prior to the judging.

All of the animals will be sold individually at auction. To encourage a maximum yield for the young contestants, the U. P. State Fair has invited hotel owners, resort proprietors, restaurant operators, etc., to attend the fat cattle sale and to bid on these animals.

The animals must be in place for exhibition at the fair on opening day, Tuesday, Aug. 18 at noon. Prospective bidders will have ample opportunity to examine the steers before the sale on Friday, Aug. 21.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

mainder of the summer includes a visit to the Beaver Islands, the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula and possibly a return to the Les Cheneaux Islands at the head of Lake Huron.

Dimmick, however, is looking forward to a winter in Greece or Egypt where he can further pursue his hobby. Should some important find be made in Northern Michigan he plans to return again next year.

Today Dimmick appears to be intent on proving, or disproving, that ancient man existed in Northern Michigan, and in applying an engineer's exactness to the inexact science of archaeology.

In the Houghton area earlier this summer the party extensively excavated a site believed to be old—and eliminated it from the list of possibilities in the current survey.

Result "Negative"

"So far the result has been negative on our survey trip. We hope to find something while we are here in Delta County," Dimmick said. "If we do we will stay as long as our time will permit."

Dr. Spaulding said the survey was "exploratory toward more extensive work" at a later date—if ancient community sites are discovered.

Old Settlers' Picnic Planned

A picnic program honoring Delta County's "old settlers" and presenting oldtime fiddlers and square dancing is scheduled by the Delta County Historical Society to be held Sunday afternoon, Aug. 23, in Pioneer Trail Park, it was announced today by A. T. Sahlberg, Gladstone, Historical Society president.

Plans for the Old Settlers' Picnic were discussed by the Historical Society board of directors in meeting last night at Carnegie Public Library in Escanaba.

Residents of all communities in Delta County who have lived in the county for the past 63 years, or prior to 1890, will receive special invitations to the picnic program.

Lists of the older residents of the county who will be honored on August 23 are now being prepared so that invitations can be issued.

It is possible that some persons deserving recognition may be missed, however, and the Historical Society requests that the names of residents of the county since 1890 or prior years be mailed to Mrs. Frank Bender Jr., Soo Hill, so that no one will be overlooked. Charles Folio, Escanaba, president of the Michigan Historical Society and a director of the local group, will arrange for a speaker for the program; Alfred Groos of Groos is in charge of exhibits and displays of early-day pictures and other material; and Frank Bender Jr. of Soo Hill will arrange for program features.

The public will be invited to attend the program and to bring picnic lunches. Free coffee will be served.

Taxes On Intangibles Sent To Treasurers

Mrs. Ann Villeneuve, county treasurer, has mailed $49,040.37 in intangible taxes to township, city, and village treasurers throughout Delta County.

The Escanaba treasurer was mailed $22,603.30, and the Gladstone treasurer $7,198.19.

The tax is on such things as bank accounts, stocks and bonds, etc., Mrs. Villeneuve said.

Amounts going to other treasurers included: Baldwin, $1,026.61; Bark River, $1,917.63; Bay de Noc, $575.14; Brampton, $826.95; Cornell, $801.62; Ensign, $664.54; Escanaba Township, $1,586.85; Fairbanks, $745.00.

Ford River, $1,454.24; Garden, $637.72; Maple Ridge, $1,737.34; Masonville, $1,735.85; Nahma, $1,421.46; Wells, $3,513.42; Garden Village, $594.51.

Eleven Delta County Men Killed In Battle

The Korea War, which took the lives of over 22,000 U. S. military men on battlefields, claimed 11 Delta County men, records of the Cloverland American Legion Post indicate.

A check of records at the Delta County Selective Service Board as fighting stops at the signing of the truce shows that 662 Delta County men still are on active duty. Of this number, 248 are inductees and 414 are enlisted men.

Driver Training Study Explained

A class of 46 young students will "graduate" this week in Escanaba's automobile driver training program, and registrations are being received for another course next month, it was announced Monday by Dennis Foltman, instructor in charge, who discussed the driver training program at the regular weekly Escanaba Kiwanis Club meeting. Foltman was accompanied by William Puckelwartz of the local public school faculty, who is assisting in the auto instruction course. The program is sponsored by the schools here.

Foltman said that the program here, set up by the American Automobile Association, includes both classroom and road instruction. Vision, judgment and reaction are tested in the classroom work, and would-be drivers are given facts regarding the essential operating parts of an automobile. In the actual operating tests, the beginners are shown how to get in a car safely, how to pull away from a curb, and how to park properly. They are then exposed to good habits of driving, Foltman commented.

In the first instruction course which concludes here Thursday, pupils 14 to 16 years of age received an average of 20 hours in the special dual-control automobiles supplied for the program, with a total of five hours behind the wheel. In addition, there were 20 hours spent in the classrooms.

The estimated cost of the program is $27 per student.

Kryn Bloom was chairman in charge of the Kiwanis program Monday.

Ask Berry Pickers To Stay Off Runway

Berry pickers are crossing the airport runway to get to the berry patches at the far side of the field, Fred Sensiba, president of Pioneer Aviation, reported in asking berry pickers to discontinue this practice.

Sensiba appealed to berry pickers to go around by Willow Creek Road to the berry grounds.

Airplanes are not as maneuverable as cars, he said. An airplane when landing must have the entire runway absolutely clear for its use. Anyone on the runway is in danger.

Sensiba emphasized he didn't want to see anyone miss getting berries, but was merely asking berry pickers to take a different route to the berry patches.

Rotarians Visit Camp Harstad

A progress report on the continuing development of Camp Harstad, crippled children's camp on the south bay shore sponsored by the Escanaba Rotary Club, was presented Monday noon to the members of the Escanaba Rotary Club and a committee of the Gladstone Rotary Club.

Camp Harstad provides healthful activity and physical therapy for those requiring it to between 40 and 50 crippled and handicapped of Delta County. The camp will have an eight-week season this summer.

Dr. N. L. Lindquist, Escanaba Rotary Club president, presided at the meeting held at Camp Harstad.

Nevin Reynolds of the club's crippled children's committee introduced members of the Gladstone Rotary Club's crippled children's committee present for the meeting: Dr. A. H. Miller, chairman, James T. Jones and Hjalmer Anderson.

Clarence Moore is physical therapist and Leon J. Smelzer, oral-deaf teacher, is his assistant at Camp Harstad. Mrs. Hennessey is cook at the camp. The children are served a noon meal there. Volunteer junior counselors complete the staff.

A demonstration of work with children handicapped by speech or hearing defects was presented by Smelzer and a group of the campers.

Reynolds reported a number of donations to Camp Harstad, including fencing, tile flooring, drinking fountain, and kitchen equipment.

Contributions were reported from Mrs. L. W. Buckley, the Escanaba Insurance Agents Association, and checks to the crippled children's camp fund in memory of Nyal Witham, Gerald J. Cleary and Peter Houle.

Planes Spray Pines In Attack On Spittlebugs

Approximately 750 acres of national forest land northeast of Rapid River were sprayed from planes this morning in an attack on the Saratoga spittlebug, a pest that destroys young Norway pines. An additional 250 acres will be sprayed as soon as wind conditions permit.

The U. S. Forest Service is in charge of the spraying, which is being done by Air Agri-Culturists, Inc., a Hale's Corners, Wis., firm.

"If the job is as effective as expected, we should have a 95 per cent kill," said Ray Knudson, timber management assistant at the Forest Service office in Escanaba.

Spraying Begins Early
Loading of the planes began at 5 this morning at Escanaba Airport, with two Forest Service workers, Art Hassell of Masonville and Harry Sherwood of Rapid River, on the job in addition to the two pilots, Bob Miller of Sarasota, Fla., and Edward Koerschner of South Milwaukee, Wis. Spraying is done early to take advantage of calm air.

The spray, a mixture of DDT and diesel fuel at the proportion of a pound of DDT to a gallon of fuel oil, was mixed yesterday in a big mixer at the ranger station in Rapid River, Paul St. Amant, assistant head of the Forest Service here, said. Amount mixed is figured at a gallon to an acre.

As the spray is sent out of the plane it passes through a pipe extending the length of the wings, and suspended about two feet below the lower wing. The pipe is held in place by braces. Spaced evenly along it are nozzles out of which the spray comes.

The sturdy little planes, a pair of red-and-silver single-seater bi-planes, recall the days of barnstorming and the fighter planes of World War I. They were rebuilt especially for agricultural work, Miller said.

The front seats were torn out of the planes, which were originally two-seaters, and spray tanks installed. New motors doubled the power to its present 450 h.p.

Picturesque Scene
The actual spraying this morning presented a picturesque scene. Along the winding dirt roads which run back from US-241 on Whitefish Hill, two men held strings from which red balloons rose 100 feet to guide the planes in their runs. The planes flew 20 or 30 feet above the pines, spray streaming out behind them like miniature jets, and falling in a soft visible rain to the ground. As a plane disappeared into the sunlight at one end of the run, a cloud of spray hung in the sun for a moment, producing a beautiful rainbow.

On duty at the Rapid River scene were Knudson, Art Schaffer of Rapid River, forest ranger at the Rapid River station; Harold Bergman, assigned to the Rapid River ranger station, and Robert Carlson of Rapid River, a truck driver.

The Saratoga spittlebug is light tan with lighter cross markings, and is one-half inch long or less. According to C. L. Harrison, head of the Forest Service here, the bug pierces the bark of Norway pines, sucks out the juice and saps the tree. The bug casts out a sort of foam all around it as it operates, Harrison said.

American Legion military services were held at the graveside with Archie Wood acting as chaplain.

Out-of-town people attending the services were Mr. and Mrs. George Rusch of Schenectady, N. Y., and Mrs. Mark Andrews of Fargo, N. D.

Milwaukee Man Is Held For Shooting Wife In Menominee

MENOMINEE — Clarence Allard, 60, of Milwaukee, a former resident of Marinette, was held today on an open charge in the Menominee County jail, pending filing of charges, for shooting his estranged wife, Martha, 45, Saturday at 6:05 p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Genuenden. Mrs. Genuenden is a daughter of Mrs. Allard by a previous marriage.

The bullet from a 38 caliber police special pistol penetrated Mrs. Allard's left leg below the knee, fracturing the shin bone and entered the right leg where it became imbedded. She was rushed to St. Joseph-Lloyd Hospital by County ambulance. Her condition was reported good today.

Twenty minutes after the shooting, Allard appeared voluntarily at the Menominee Police Station accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Harold Peterson. Police Chief Anton Jensen reported that formal charges against Allard will be filed tomorrow after Prosecuting Attorney Victor A. Lundgren, Jr., returns from Iron Mountain where he attended a special session of Circuit Court today for two Menominee County criminal cases. Jensen indicated the charge against Allard will be felonious assault with a dangerous weapon.

Jensen reported that Allard told police after giving himself up that he had arrived here from Milwaukee about noon Saturday and that he went to the Genuenden home, where Mrs. Allard was visiting in an attempt to reconcile their domestic differences. (A divorce suit between the couple is pending.)

Allard said his visit to his wife was not welcomed and that he pulled out a 38 caliber police pistol, which he had loaded in his car before he entered the home and kept concealed under his coat, claiming he only meant to scare his wife into listening to his plea for reconciliation. He said he was seated alongside of his wife and that the gun accidentally discharged.

Truce In Korea Ends Carnage; U.N. Gained Stature In War

A truce has been signed in Korea, halting three years of carnage in the strangest war in modern history. It was a strange war because it was fought under rules which made total victory impossible for either side.

The United Nations could not attain total victory because they were shackled by a threat of all-out war with Red China. The Communists could not attain victory because it was impossible for them to develop an offensive of the scope necessary to drive the U. N. troops from the Korean peninsula. And so it became a war of attrition, both sides losing heavily in manpower and materials.

If the truce is not a total victory for the United Nations, it is nonetheless a defeat for the Communists because the Reds have gained nothing of the objective for which they set out when they sent their armies moving against South Korea over three years ago. And the Communist losses in manpower have been enormous, many times greater than the losses of the defenders.

There are many who say even now that the Korean armistice is a mistake because it leaves Korea divided and because the threat of Communist aggression has not been completely dissipated. Mainly these are the folks who believe that war with Communist Russia by the free people of the world is inevitable and that it is better to fight the war now while we have superiority in atomic weapons.

The Korean armistice is not a mistake. It ends a senseless slaughter under terms completely honorable to the United Nations which has gained the purpose of its intervention in Korea.

The South Korean government is unhappy with the terms of the armistice because South Korea had hoped to unify the Korean peninsula as an outgrowth of the fighting. Unification, may still be achieved through peaceful negotiation and in any case, the experiences of the war proved that unification could not be achieved by force alone.

The Korean war has not been by any means a war without gain from the American viewpoint. The 22,000 Americans who died on the Korean battlefield have not died in vain. The Korean war has served to halt Communist aggression and it has united the free nations of the world against Communist pressures.

Korea marked the turning point in Communist expansion.

We Want To Help

IT'S a constant miracle that the phony Russian legend of humanitarianism can survive the Kremlin's own endless assaults upon the fantasy. Obviously the Big Fraud dies hard.

Some time ago President Eisenhower made a generous offer of food for the hungry folk of East Germany. The Russians flatly rejected it, with Foreign Minister Molotov remarking that America was "misinformed" about the need.

Apparently the stomachs of East Germans were otherwise informed, for Russia found it necessary some two weeks later to do something about the shortages. In a rather painful reversal, the Soviet Union agreed to ship in some badly needed foodstuffs.

Characteristically, however, the Kremlin attached some conditions to its offer. To ours there were no strings, but Russia likes to make charity a paying proposition.

Moscow is demanding that East Germany pay for the food received by shipping some $57 million worth of manufactured goods to Russia. Everybody ought to recognize this frowzy deal for what it is, but there are probably still some baffled citizens around the globe who will mark it as real Communist concern for humanity. Some go on believing the myth until they get a bullet in the stomach instead of a meal.

Mr. Eisenhower sensibly intends to go on making food available to the East Germans by whatever means we can get it to them. We really want to help, and we want the world to understand who it has the genuine humanitarian impulses.

Questions and Answers

Q—How do government agencies keep going when their appropriations are delayed beyond the beginning of the fiscal year?

A—To meet such day-to-day operating expenses as payrolls agencies depend upon enactment of a stop-gap "continuing" resolution. Congress passed such a resolution June 29, permitting the agencies to spend during July at the lowest rate provided in pending appropriation bills or at the rate provided in the Administration's budget requests. Long-term projects during appropriations delay can be financed in some cases by spending funds already obligated from previous appropriations.

Vatican City is an enclave, actually an independent state surrounded by the city of Rome. Monaco, a small independent principality lying on the Mediterranean Sea within the borders of France, is an enclave, for it is surrounded by, not one, but two foreign countries—Spain and France.

The Doctor Says... Overeating Is the Cause Of Most Cases of Obesity

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. — Written for NEA Service

Most people who are fat or even only moderately over-weight maintain that they want to lose the excess poundage. No doubt this is true, but most fat people seem more willing to talk about it than to eat less.

With exceedingly few exceptions, and I mean hardly any at all, the cause of obesity is overeating. By the same token those who say they want to lose can do so by eating less. This is not easy for the average overweight person, but it can be done by the liberal use of will power and without the use of drugs.

However, someone who really wants to lose should understand what foods to eat and how much. They cannot afford to cheat as so many people do by little extra mouthfuls now and then which they just "don't count." The few pieces of candy or the evening raid on the refrigerator have been the downfall of too many reducing programs.

The foods which turn into human fat most easily are the animal or vegetable fats such as butter or margarine and fat meat. The starches or carbohydrate foods, too, must be cut down or eliminated if weight is to be taken off. In this group belong potatoes, sugar and cereals.

If foods such as these are eliminated from the diet or taken only in small quantities, progress should be made. They can be replaced with lean meat, fowl, fish, vegetables and the less-sweet fruits.

FOLLOW STRICT DIET

A really scientific diet for reducing, however, must be calculated for each person by recording such things as height, age, sex, and proper weight, and then figuring the calories which such a person ought to have. Then a strict diet in which the food is weighed can be worked out on a calorie basis and if the diet is really followed, weight loss will inevitably follow.

Obesity has a bad effect on general health; at all ages the overweight person is more likely to die or to become ill with most types of disease than the thin person. The medical evidence is overwhelming and more and more doctors are insisting that overweight patients lose weight in addition to other treatments indicated. The first two weeks are the hardest, however, and the diet generally seems easier after one gets used to it.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The American people are nearly always ahead of their government, and a great many of them have wired or written me urging action on the idea of dropping food parcels by balloon to people behind the Iron Curtain. Here is a cross-section of some of the messages:

W. A. Gossett, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Carlsbad, New Mex.—"Your suggestion of the food lift to East Berlin via balloon seems very logical. I believe it could be adopted by the U. S. Jaycees as a project. With over 2000 locals in every state in the union, Alaska, and Hawaii, it would be a very effective goodwill gesture."

David C. Well and Martin Jones, Lubbock, Tex.—"Food balloon barrage wonderful. Lubbock Civitan Club interested in aiding."

Stuttgart, Ark., Rotary Club—"We like your suggestion. Sending $50 check to start food balloon campaign for East Germany. Best regards from Stuttgart, rice and duck capital of the world."

A. B. Hilton, publisher, Stillwater Valley News, Covington, Ohio—"What's being done in Washington to mobilize small organizations in small communities in the job of getting food behind the Iron Curtain? We have a lot of individuals and organizations ready and willing to help. What can they do?"

C. R. Dunlap, pres., Young Democrats of Beaver, Pa.—"The Young Democratic Club of Beaver County will be happy to donate food package and balloon to be released over one of the satellite countries."

Mrs. Rosine Schramm, Philadelphia—"Your column in the Evening Bulletin touched me deeply. . . . The idea of sending food balloons into East Germany is a healthy one. Cold money is not what people want. Especially when there is nothing to buy. But give a hungry child a piece of fruit or jelly bread and then watch his eyes sparkle and turn toward you. I know I have gone real hungry during the world war."

D. L. Batchelder, West Atlantic City, N. J.—"Indeed it would be most impressive for people who are short of food to have packages dropped from the sky accompanied by a message of friendship. A literal 'manna from heaven' with the help of their friends in the west. . . . As a Rotarian of many years, I just wondered if there was some way I could help with a program of that kind."

Mrs. F. M. Haws, Rosemead, Calif.—"I am not a fan-letter writer, but somehow I felt urged to say to you 'don't apologize for repeating the article about sending surplus butter to the people behind the Iron Curtain.' The article makes sense and I'd say repeat it again until something is done about it. It's the best way I can think of to fight communism."

C. M. Coggins, Arlington, Va.—"I was a real pleasure to learn about your experiments in cracking the Iron Curtain via hydrogen-filled balloons. Now you're 'cooking with gas,' and doing something practical that should have been done long ago."

"Quite lengthy messages of friendship and encouragement could be sent behind the Iron Curtain on pieces of paper as big as a newspaper. And if—on the reverse side of the sheet—were printed a facsimile front page of Pravda, then it would be possible for the paper to be folded in such a way as to appear to be a recent copy of a Communist newspaper."

"People in captive countries would soon refuse to read Pravda in public for fear of being considered 'suspect.' But would that be bad?"

"Equally possible—Every citizen would undertake to carry a copy of Pravda publicly, for the purpose of forcing security agents to investigate everybody. But would that be bad?"

"The local edition of Pravda would have to change its format, size and mast-head frequently—only to be perfectly matched almost at once by the freedom messages floating across the curtain from the west. That wouldn't be very bad either, would it?"

It's a lot more fun sitting back and thinking things over if you have accomplished something in life.

If science keeps on, we'll be getting our food in pill form. Okay—if they're only taken between meals.

Folks wouldn't mind so much paying for a doctor's advice if they just had sense enough to take it.

Intelligence is the ability to believe any person who tells you they cannot sing a note.

Folks who don't have sense enough to toss out their anger are likely to be sailing on the sea of trouble.

Stuck Whistle

Postwar Patent Life In U.S. Runs Heaviest To Chemistry

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — America has been making itself a new chemical way of life since the war.

But in the fields of buttons, wooden barrels, needles and pins, buggy whips and pneumatic conveyor tubes, the nation is standing stock still.

This reflection of the direction which U.S. living has taken in the last seven years comes from a study of patent trends just made by the United States Patent Office.

Out of 188,523 patents granted since 1946, there have been 35,772 in the field of chemistry. Next are patents granted in electronics engineering, with a few more than 10,000; machine tools, with a few less than 10,000; automotive engineering with approximately 9000; and textile manufacturing, with about 8000.

The list of new products which comes from these post-war chemical patents is almost endless. They include thousands of new plastic articles, new medicines and wonder drugs, fertilizers and insecticides, new synthetic fabrics and great numbers of industrial chemicals not commonly known, but used in numerous manufacturing processes.

There's not much agreement within the chemical trade as to just what basic post-war chemical patents are the most important. Some of the recent patents cover the new chemicals themselves. But many of the key patents have to do with processes for making chemicals. Most of the details on this subject are kept hidden as trade secrets.

Some industrial chemists claim that the patents on fluid catalysts which permit the extraction of a whole family of other chemicals from crude petroleum — used mostly for manufacturing processes — are the most important.

It is estimated that crude oil and natural gas now are the source of more than 25,000 different chemicals.

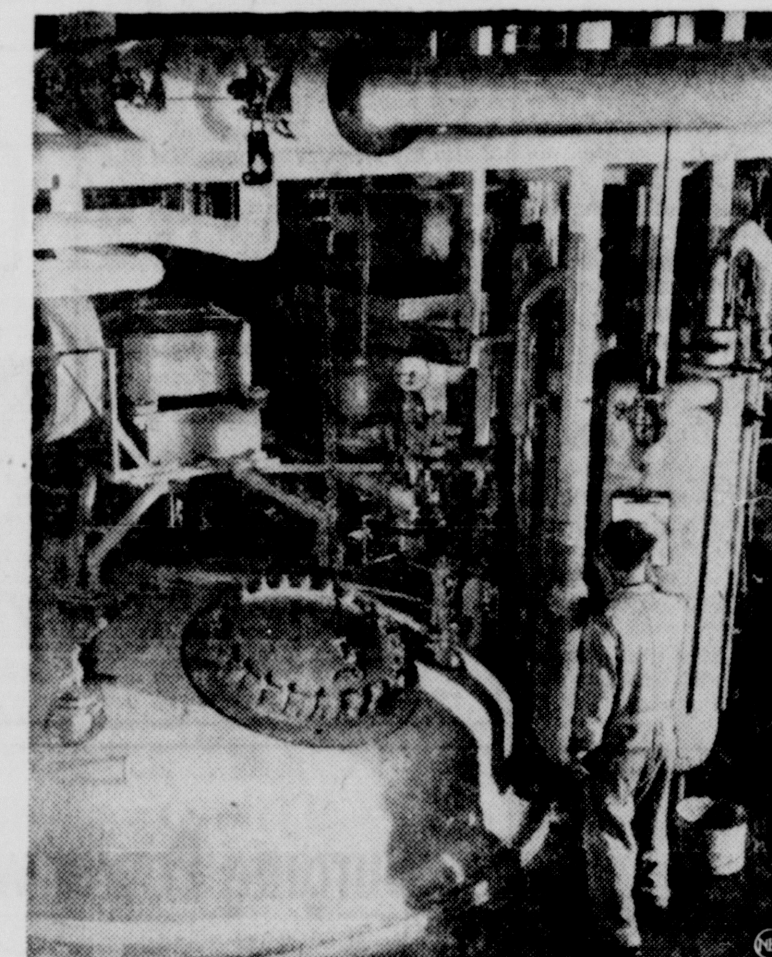

In the "wonder drug" category, Patent Office officials claim that it is difficult to pinpoint specific patents as the most important. For instance, the basic patent on penicillin dates back to 1938. But it has turned out to be virtually invalid because it failed to make an exact identification of the substance.

The most important patents in the antibiotic drug field granted since the war stem from the discoveries of chloamphenicol, aureomycin and terramycin. Hundreds of patents having to do with the manufacture of these substances and related medical products have been granted in the last seven years.

Tracer chemistry, as a research tool using radioactive materials supplied by the Atomic Energy Commission, has figured prominently in the discovery and isolation of almost all of the important new post-war chemicals. In this respect it is claimed that constructive effects of the discovery of the atomic bomb threaten to overshadow its destructive effects.

Also in this connection the Patent Office report states:

"Patents granted in organic chemicals in the past seven years (17,665) will some time during the year exceed the number of patents heretofore issued for weapons and explosive devices during the entire 127-year history of the government's patent granting program."

PATENTS YOU NEVER SEE go into this 9000-gallon fermenter tank of aureomycin mold in the form of chemicals. Wonder drugs are one of the thousands of postwar chemical patents.

As might be expected, the bulk of the newer patents in the electronics field have to do with various phases of television and radio. Although automotive patents are fourth in the number of those granted since the war, the Patent Office points out that since long before the war this field has been one of the most consistent producers of new ideas, devices and manufacturing processes.

The Patent Office finds that there are several fields in which patent applications are shrinking fast. These include road construction and road machinery, ammunition, bottle and jars and aircraft. Many of the patents included in the electronics category are actually for use in aircraft, however.

An expert Washington patent attorney says that he sees no change in the trend of increased applications in the chemical field. He points out that the ones coming in are actually opening up many new areas in the general field for discovery and invention.

So They Say

There is not even a drop of water on my place. But I have been in the cattle business 32 years, and I can take the worst that nature can hand out.—Evelyn Haley, Texas cattleman, on the drought.

Either Malenkov wanted to "get" Beria, or some people are wanting to "get" Malenkov and they had to "get" Beria first in order to reach the Premier.—Boris H. Klosson, a U. E. State Department expert on Russia.

Government agencies have no regard for costs in seeing that their propaganda is adroitly explained.—Rep. Graham A. Barden, (D., N. C.) at North Carolina Press Ass'n. meeting.

All the power and the might of that ruthless (Soviet) machine are still intact. Indeed, it would be well to remember that all too often war has been the desperate solution of tyranny confronted by an internal condition.—NATO's supreme commander, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, on downfall of Lavrenti P. Beria.

The United States has traditionally sought to alleviate suffering, starvation and disease wherever it might be found.—President Eisenhower, in note to Russia offering food to East Germany.

That's bumble bee cotton. It grows so short that a bumble bee can sit on the ground and suck nectar from the top hole.—Al M. Muldrow, Texas farmer, commenting on his drought-shrivelled cotton crop.

It's regrettable that the new administration, which talked so much about a bold policy of liberation during last fall's campaign should be so relatively passive now.—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, (D., Ill.) before "Free Poland" rally in Chicago.

I haven't burned any books since as a kid on the farm I used to start fires for my mother in the morning with old magazines and newspapers.—Senator McCarthy says reference to "book burners" couldn't have been directed at him.

Good Evening...

JUST A MEMORY—Back from annual vacation again, we would like to report that of all the Michigan towns we visited on our travels, Gladstone and Escanaba have the most attractive waterfronts.

This thought came to us after noting how few Michigan cities, including many downstate, make the most of their waterfront possibilities.

Perhaps Escanaba and Gladstone could do more, but should they halt development now their shore parks would be superior to most for many years to come.

So the vacation is only a memory of cities with bigger advertising budgets and less natural attractions than the two cities on Little Bay de Noc. A little traveling elsewhere in Michigan only brings full realization that the two cities on the bay have everything the tourist (and the year around resident) seeks for recreation.

SLOW TRAVEL—Unless you go traveling occasionally it is almost impossible to realize the full economic meaning of the tourist industry in Michigan.

Town after town exists largely for the benefit of the tourist. Summertime is the busy season. Shops, motels, tourist cabins and resort flourish for the summer months and then close.

Perhaps the Upper Peninsula is not receiving its full share of this tourist travel because of the Straits of Mackinac bottleneck. The ferry service is better than ever before—but the traffic volume somehow manages to keep one jump ahead of ferry facilities.

And it was at the Straits on the way back to the Upper Peninsula we discovered how much depends upon that boat link at the Straits in keeping the traffic moving.

THE BIG SECRET—We arrived at Mackinaw City in the evening. There were four or five lines of cars on the state ferry dock—waiting.

At the end of the dock lay the largest and newest of the "Great White Fleet"—the ferry Vacationland. Like a ripple of gossip in a small town the word passed from one car to another: "The big boat is broken down."

We waited. More cars came to add to the lineup. One hour and thirty-four minutes later we were aboard another, smaller ferry, the City of Cheboygan.

On the deck of the Cheboygan a crew member approached a gold braid officer and asked in a low voice:

"What happened to the Vacationland?" The officer edged closer and almost whispered:

"Communication system broken down. Won't be repaired until tomorrow."

THE SPEED UP—Another ferry docked shortly after the Cheboygan cleared from Mackinaw City. The travelers would not have to wait long—but the delay was not to their liking.

We overheard comments on the ferry indicating the opinion that if some of the tourists had known they would lose one to two hours travel time at the Straits that evening they would have stayed in Lower Michigan.

The more philosophical among the travelers watched the moon rise and the lights of the passing boats; the impatient ones bemoaned losing so much "time" and studied their road maps.

A few of them talked about the proposed Straits of Mackinac bridge. If there was a bridge at the Straits, said one man, he and his party could have been in Sault Ste. Marie by this time.

"But they're not going to build a bridge yet," he said knowingly. "Too much politics."

THE ROAD HOME—Traffic has been heavy throughout Northern Michigan for several weeks, encouraged by the hot weather that sends vacationers north.

Through St. Ignace, Manistique, Gladstone and Escanaba the traffic moved at a fast clip—eastward toward the Straits. Tourists were making a homeward dash after a few cool days in the Upper Peninsula.

We were going home, too, home to Delta county with its miles of shoreline on the bays and its cities with waterfront parks second to none anywhere in the state.

Vacations are usually a pleasure, but here in the Upper Peninsula we have the pleasure of living in vacationland the year around.

Three Ocean Races Old Challenge To Sailors

WASHINGTON — Ocean racing sailormen, as dedicated a group of sportsmen as mountain climbers, put to sea this summer in three major bluewater classics — the jaunt down the Atlantic coast from Newport to Annapolis, the cold and windy Fastnet off England, and the long tradewind reach out to Honolulu from California's sunny shore.

These ocean racing men and women undergo grueling hardships solely for glory, and trophies frequently worth less than a spare spinnaker, reports the National Geographic Society. More than any others, they are the custodians of the windjammer tradition that bade fair to die when commercial sail vanished from the open seas.

Deepwater yachtsmen started to pick up the torch before the last flashing Yankee clipper and grain carrier had succumbed to the economic competition of steam. Princes of Europe were racing in sailing yachts around the beginning of the 19th century, while well-to-do Americans were emulating them in increasing numbers after the Civil War.

First Race In '66
The first truly long-distance race took place in 1866 when the big American schooner Vesta, Henrietta and Fleetwing crossed the Atlantic from Sandy Hook to Cowes, English yachting center. James Gordon Bennett's Henrietta won.

In 1870, the English schooner Cambria beat an American counterpart, Dauntless, from Ireland to Sandy Hook. There was another two-boat race, America to Ireland, in 1887. But in 1905 came what still ranks as the greatest bluewater race. Eleven sail yachts set out from this country for England to win a cup donated by the German Kaiser. The schooner Atlantic won and set a record never since equaled by a sailing yacht—3,014 miles in 12 days, 4 hours, 1 minute, 19 seconds.

The American ocean classics—The Bermuda and the Honolulu—are the oldest of all regularly scheduled deepwater competitions. Instituted in 1906, they have been continued, with lapses, ever since.

Now Biennials
Sailed annually at first, they are now biennials. In the odd years between Bermudas, which start off Newport, R. I., the East Coast fleet has been sailing down from Newport to the Chesapeake Capes, then up the Chesapeake Bay to Annapolis. Some yachtsmen consider this a coastal rather than an ocean race.

A few have the same opinion of the more highly regarded Fastnet, which is a round trip from England's Channel Coast past Land's End to bleak Fastnet Rock off the south tip of Ireland. Land is never far, with plenty of harbors of refuge that have upon occasion come in handy. The contest dates back to 1925.

Transoceanic races are not regularly scheduled, but there have been a number of them. Among the more famous since 1905 have been the longest ever held, the four-yacht contest from San Francisco to Tahiti; the 1928 thrash to Santander, Spain, from Gravesend Bay; the 1931 Newport to Plymouth, England; and the Newport to Bergen, Norway, in 1935.

Since the early days of ocean racing, the trend has been toward smaller ships, which if properly designed, can be as safe as the biggest. Top limit for the Bermuda, for example, is just over 70 feet on deck. Yachts under 40 feet can race in this carefully supervised event.

HONOR REBELS — In memory of the June rebellion of East German workers, these commemorative stamps will be issued by the West German postal service. Done in simple black and white, the stamps are valued at 20 pfennig for the East German uprising, top, and 30 pfennig for the Berlin rebellion.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Tribute To Chaplains

ARTHRITIS FORCED ME TO BED. O-JIB-WA PUT ME BACK ON MY FEET

"THE PAIN OF ARTHRITIS IN MY FEET WAS SO BAD THAT MANY TIMES I JUST SAT AND CRIED, AS I THOUGHT I WOULD NEVER WALK AGAIN," says Mrs. Anne Kneeshaw, 613 Robbin Drive, Algonac, Michigan.

"If it hadn't been for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, I don't know what I would have done. I had painful arthrititis in both my feet, and Oh, how they pained whenever I stood on them. I owned and operated a small restaurant, and as I couldn't even stand, was forced to sell Mrs. Kneeshaw out. My feet finally got so bad I couldn't even get out of bed, and many times I just sat and cried as I thought I would never walk again. Treatments failed to help me until I tried O-JIB-WA BITTERS. Why! in three weeks, I could see a world of difference and in about two months, I was entirely better and up and around again as good as ever. If I ever feel my feet or legs bothering me now, I take a few doses of O-JIB-WA BITTERS and can truthfully tell all sufferers that it is really remarkable. I am certainly glad to praise and recommend O-JIB-WA BITTERS to all who suffer from arthritis as I did."

White House Still Wants New Ceiling For National Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials indicated today they almost certainly will ask Congress toward the end of this week for a new ceiling on the national debt. The truce in Korea, they said, will not appreciably ease the strain on government finances in the coming six to eight months. Reduced spending for defense, said the officials, who asked not to be named, must come from reorganization and tightening of the defense setup "and that will take time."

May Save Billion

They said the government will in all likelihood spend the 43½ billion dollars now budgeted for major national security programs in the 12 months ending next June 30, despite the end of fighting in Korea.

Something like a billion dollars might be saved, they said, in reduced fighting expenses. But that much or perhaps more, they estimated, would probably be used in the next year to 18 months in helping devastated Korea.

Nearing Limit

One official, explaining that tions such as occurred during the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners last April.

Hold 3,313 Americans

Col. L. C. Friedersdorf, head of the U. N. team on the military armistice committee for prisoner exchange, said the Reds reported they held about 500 sick and wounded prisoners. They gave no break down by nationality.

The U. N. holds about 3,000 disabled Communist prisoners.

The Reds have said they will turn back 12,763 captives, including 3,313 Americans.

The U. N. Command will hand over 69,000 North Koreans and about 5,000 Chinese.

The Allies also hold 7,800 North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese who have said they will not return to communism. These prisoners will be moved to the neutral zone near Panmunjom while Communist agents try to persuade them to go home.

Reckless Drivers Pay Fines, Costs

Lawrence Stairs, Rapid River, arrested by Escanaba police and charged with reckless driving and defective brakes, yesterday pleaded guilty in Justice Caroline A. Nystrom's court and was assessed a fine and costs totaling $35.

Donald E. Dufour of 1013 Second Ave. N. yesterday pleaded guilty in Justice Henry E. Ranguette's court to a reckless driving charge and paid a fine of $25 and costs. He was arrested by police after his car collided with an auto driven by Robert Lequia, 417 S. 12th St.

Harold L. Hilling, 21, of Gwin, today pleaded guilty in Justice Ranguette's court to a charged of stealing the hub cap from a car in the Northern Motor used care parking lot and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

Newberry Business Man Is Drowned

NEWBERRY (AP)—Mervin J. Pike, 38, proprietor of the M. J. Pike Distributing Co., was drowned late Sunday afternoon after rescuing one of his small sons who had fallen out of a motorboat.

The drowning occurred in Pretty Lake, 30 miles north of Newberry, where the Pike family has a summer cottage. According to state police, Mr. and Mrs. Pike took their three children for a boat ride, and one of the children fell into the water.

Pike jumped in after him, handing the boy to his wife in the boat. However, he fell back before he could climb out of the water. Mrs. Pike leaped in to rescue him, but was unable to hold him. She then drove two miles to another cottage, whose occupants notified state police in Newberry.

The body was recovered in 30 feet of water, about 300 feet from shore, at 9:30 this morning by Sheriff Russell Hill, Coroner Leonard Peterson, state police and conservation officers. It was taken to the Beaulieu funeral home in Newberry.

Texas Town Has Extra City Hall For Negroes

ITALY, Tex. (AP)—Negroes in this central Texas town now have their own city hall.

In ceremonies Monday night Mayor Robert D. Windham presented keys of the modest frame structure to John Farrow, named mayor of a recently elected Negro City Council.

Under the dual-council system, problems and plans of the Negro section of town will be acted upon first by the Negro Council. Then, to make them legal, proposals will go before the regular City Council.

over-all defense spending will probably continue much as planned before the truce was signed in Korea, said:

"We don't know what is going to happen in Indochina or other potential trouble spots. So far as the reduction of spending is concerned the truce in Korea is only a ray of light on the horizon."

The debt now stands only 2½ billion dollars beneath the 275 billion dollar limit. Estimated spending and income between now and the period of high tax return next spring will keep this margin from growing any bigger.

Peace Talks May Ignore Neutrals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may press for a United Nations delegation to the Korean peace conference made up exclusively from among the 17 nations which actually fought the Communists.

This was reported under consideration today after Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told the Senate "we must not allow neutrals who sat out three years of war" to have a decisive voice in the peace talks, due to begin within 90 days.

Authorities said Secretary of State Dulles and his principal advisers, with the armistice signing out of the way, have just started a close study of plans for the conference. One of the proposals up for decision is whether to try to limit the delegation to the nations which made direct military contributions.

The U. N. General Assembly has been summoned to meet Aug. 17 to receive a formal report from the U. N. Command on the Korean armistice. It will have the responsibility of deciding the site for the political conference with the Communists to try to work out a permanent Korean peace settlement. It will also consider an agenda and composition of the U. N. delegation.

Even if the delegation should be limited to those nations which took part in the fighting, the United States might find itself in the minority.

Sensors said Dulles told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee in closed session recently that one of his gravest problems is now to prevent this country from being outvoted by nations which contributed only about 5 per cent of the fighting forces, not counting South Korea.

House Raffles Under Ban In Detroit Area

DETROIT (AP)—Police chiefs from 12 Downriver communities plan a crackdown on house raffles and other forms of lotteries.

The chiefs Monday met and mapped out their plan, estimating it would affect $25,000 in prizes in lotteries now under way in the area where raffles on so-called "dream" houses have thrived.

The chiefs said the crackdown is in accordance with recent orders issued by Attorney General Frank Millard to prosecute operators of gaming devices of any and all kinds.

Dime Store Toy Money Works In Turnstiles

NEW YORK (AP)—Toy money, selling at a handful for a dime, was working just as well in subway turnstiles as the new 15-cent fare tokens.

So the F. W. Woolworth Co. Monday pulled the play money off its counters and said the toy coins won't be sold again until the New York City Transit Authority "perfects plans for preventing its use" in the subway.

'Snatch Platoon' Stands By At Panmunjom Ready For Communist Trickery

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM delayed by censor

—A mobile force of U. S. Marines stood by just outside the neutral zone all through the Panmunjom negotiations—ready to dash in and rescue Allied delegates in the event of Communist treachery.

Existence of the "snatch platoon" was a closely guarded secret which could be revealed only after the armistice was signed.

The rescue force, equipped with flame-throwing tanks and armored personnel carriers, was organized

Arizona Polygamists Seek Bail In Court

SHORT CREEK, Ariz. (AP)—Negotiations to furnish bonds for the 34 men and 50 women arrested in a state raid on this polygamous community began today following the arrival of an attorney from Salt Lake City, Utah.

The attorney said he was H. S. Nolan.

A pre-dawn raid Sunday by Arizona authorities rounded up 263 children in addition to the men and women.

Juvenile court proceedings to determine disposition of the children will be the next step.

Juvenile court judges also will decide on the future status of some of the wives who are as young as 13.

FAIRFORD AIR BASE, England (AP)—An American B47 Stratojet bomber flashed across the Atlantic from the United States to England today in the record-shattering time of 4 hours and 45 minutes.

The sleek, swept-wing six-jet atom bomber, called the world's fastest, whooshed from Limestone, Maine, Air Base to Fairford—a distance of 3,120 miles nonstop—at an average speed of about 609 miles an hour.

The flight clipped 37 minutes off the previous record of 5 hours 22 minutes, set last June 6 by another B47.

Battle Casualty Lists In Korea Not Ended Yet

ports of 350 additional killed, wounded and missing, but all of these occurred several days before the truce was signed.

The last stage in the casualty reporting is the publication of individual names and addresses. The casualty report appearing in today's newspapers includes battle deaths and injuries that occurred nearly three weeks ago.

Such reports are compiled in the Pentagon and mailed to newspapers and organizations throughout the country for publication on a future date.

It may be years before the final count is completed on the number of Americans who were killed, wounded and captured in the Korean conflict. It was only this summer that the Army issued its final report on battle casualties of World War II.

Expansion Of Social Security Recommended

By DREW PEARSON

About 10,000,000 more people will be included under Social Security by a special message which President Eisenhower will send to Congress early this week.

It is aimed to carry out presidential pledges made during the election campaign and will place under Social Security a large list of people hitherto not enjoying old-age or unemployment benefits. They will include:

Ministers of the gospel and lay church workers; state and local government employees; self-employed, such as doctors and lawyers; medical internes; civil employees of the Coast Guard, and American citizens employed on foreign-flag vessels such as those of Panama and Liberia, provided the vessels are owned by Americans.

President Eisenhower will send only a brief message to Congress, in which he will re-emphasize his belief in the basic principles of the Social-Security program but will say that it must be strengthened.

Originally he had asked Congressman Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, to introduce the new Social Security bill. But Reed was so burned up over his reversal on the continuation of the excess-profits tax that he refused. Eisenhower then turned to one of the Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee, Robert Kean of New Jersey, who has consistently supported him on tax measures.

Eisenhower's message will sidestep any increase in the limit of $75 a month which oldsters are permitted to earn without losing their old-age benefits. There has been a lot of pressure on the White House to increase the $75 limit to $100 a month. The President, however, has told congressional advisers that he felt a request for an increase of this limit would create too much opposition on Capitol Hill. However, he indicated he would ask to boost the $75-a-month ceiling at the next session.

The new Social-Security proposals will also help those drawing social-security benefits, by permitting anyone to drop the three worst years in computing his monthly wages.

Michigan Has 3,222 Casualties In Korea

By The Associated Press

A sober Michigan—joyful but quiet—today counted 3,222 casualties in the Korean War.

Air Force Operates Test Pilot School

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Fifteen men are going to school here with tailless planes and slide rules among their materials and pre-dawn classes a part of their schedules. The students are skilled air force pilots. As graduates, after six months, they will be crack test pilots.

The school is the U. S. experimental flight test pilot school, believed to be one of five such schools in the world. The others are operated by the Navy, the British, French and Russians.

Among the 400 graduates of the school are Maj. Charles Yeager, the first human to exceed the speed of sound, and pilots who have broken several other official world speed records.

Besides qualifying as an ace pilot, the students must have had at least two years of college engineering work. At the school they are taught advanced mathematics, physics, and many courses dealing with flight and sound. The men also visit aircraft plants and test ejection seats and altitude pressure chambers.

A Dane named Christen Jacobsen Drakenberg attained the greatest longevity in modern times, according to the best available records, living to the age of 146 years.

There was no wild celebrating. There was the stillness of relief.

Michigan families and other loved ones of men in Korea quietly listened to word Sunday night that the Korean conflict had been ended by a truce.

State Selective Service officials in Lansing gave some reason for the calm. They listed 1,736 Michigan men killed in the 37-month-old war. An estimated 177,000 from the state served in Korea. Some 1,486 were wounded.

Officials said that 15,385 Michigan men were killed in World War II and 4,552 in World War I. Some 630,000 from the state served in World War II and 186,000 in World War I.

In the homes of missing or captured men there was mounting excitement. Sorrow hovered over homes where loved ones would never return.

Selective Service officials said that 91 Michigan members of the armed services may be accounted for when prisoners of war are sent home by the Communists.

Lake Michigamme Methodist Institute Marks 30 Years

A jubilant celebration will be held at the Methodist Institute on Lake Michigamme Sunday, Aug. 2, when Methodist people and pastors will gather to mark the beginning of the second 30 years of service by the Institute to U. P. churches and youth.

The Rev. Charles F. Wolfe, superintendent of the Methodist churches in the Marquette district, has announced that Bishop Marshall R. Reed, leader of the Methodist people of Michigan, will be the guest speaker. Special musical selections will be presented by the Negaunee Men's Chorus under the direction of Carl Peterson.

Of particular interest to U. P. residents will be the dedication of the Rev. Ernest Brown Memorial Health Cabin by Bishop Reed. The observance begins at 3 p. m.

Charles Wolfe Superintendent

It was in 1921 that the Rev. George W. Olmstead was appointed superintendent of the Marquette district, and following a dream for a centrally-located site where churches of the Upper Peninsula might meet for fellowship, study, and inspiration, he bought some 90 acres of land, with a half mile of frontage on Lake Michigamme.

The past thirty years has seen the property develop, and increase in value, from the land purchase price of $3,000 to a modern camp valued at well over $100,000. The pioneer church program was begun by converting a barn into a dining room and kitchen, with the hay-loft made into a girl's dormitory, the building of a tabernacle, and a boy's dormitory. Soon to follow was construction of Grace Hall with a kitchen, dining room, and dorm for girls, and the Wigwam, a dormitory for 60 boys and men.

District superintendents coming after Mr. Olmstead were caught up in the dream of a Methodist Institute at Michigamme, and gave their leadership to the new venture in summer camping for churches. They were Frank L. Leonard, Joseph Dutton, John A. Yeoman, Gernsey F. Gorton, John Meredith, and the present superintendent, Charles F. Wolfe of Marquette.

The Trustees

The period from 1940 to 1946 saw much activity at Michigamme with the launching of "25 years of service" project, resulting in more than $10,000 in building and improvements. Additional volunteer labor amounted to more than $6,000. During this period the late Rev. Ernest Brown conducted a campaign for funds to complete a fellowship chapel. Subsequently the chapel has been used by hundreds of young people and adults.

The advancement of Michigamme Methodist Institute has continued with the building of three cabins for boys' dormitories, and the building, this year, of the Ernest Brown Memorial Health Cabin. A total of 20 buildings are located on the 90-acre tract.

Care of the property is entrusted to the following trustees: chairman, Charles F. Wolfe of Marquette; laymen, C. E. Tonkin and Stanley Williams of Ishpeming; and A. F. Young of Houghton; ministers, James R. Balfour of Houghton, Karl J. Hammar of Escanaba, and Glen E. L. Kjellberg.

Being caught up in the spirit of Michigamme many U. P. young people have dedicated themselves to service in the Church. To be included are Dr. John E. Marvin, editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate; the Rev. Ivan O. Gonsert, pastor of Madison Avenue Church, Bay City; the Rev. P. G. Trembly, pastor of the Clawson Church, Detroit, and the late Rev. Lawrence Worth, all men from the Upper Peninsula.

The program during the early days of the Methodist Institute drew hundreds of people for a week to ten days. Bringing their own tents and cooking their own meals, they came by every means of travel, but mainly via the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway, which to this day will stop upon signal at the Institute grounds.

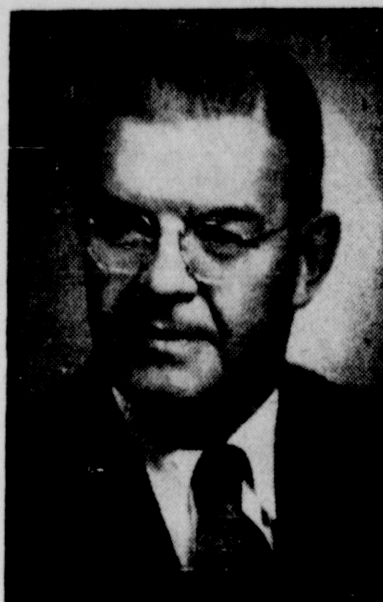

The old tabernacle seated 800 and Sunday sessions found it crowded; four and five hundred stayed for the ten days of the institute, enjoying the rugged, rocky terrain and the woods. All who came climbed to "Hilltop" many times during their stay and never forgot the view of the wilderness and Lake Michigamme seen from the high bluff.

Church Group Meetings

Some leaders of the old Epworth League Institutes will attend the celebration. They are Frank Leonard, Ernest Brown, Harry Colenso, Fred Clifford, Alvin Doten. Two of the first leaders, George Olmstead, of Highland Park and Joseph Dutton of Ann Arbor, will be unable to attend.

The Michigamme Methodist Institute camp this year will be in use for five weeks with a different staff and age group attending each week.

The Marquette District Woman's Society of Christian Service training institute for local church officers at the camp will be held Aug. 3-4 under the guidance of Mrs. Alfred Anderson of Bark River; and on August 9th a special laymen's program has been arranged by C. E. Tonkin of Ish-

A further development in the Michigamme Methodist Institute program for this year is to be found in a "Christian Life Camp" to be held Aug. 4-9. This camp is for single adults, or youth, or for family groups with directed activities for all age groups. Dr. Glenn M. Frye, assistant to Bishop Reed, will be dean of the Christian Life Camp.

Why Batory Captain Fleed

Secret Police Monster Preys On Innocent Victims For Self-Survival As Work Conditions Get Worse

Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, master of the Polish liner Batory, on which Gerhart Eisler escaped from the United States, recently sought and obtained political asylum in Great Britain. This is the last of six articles by him on conditions under the Communist regime which caused him to walk off his ship at Newcastle-on-Tyne, where it was being overhauled.

By Capt. Jan Cwiklinski, LONDON.

Poland, like the Batory, has become a prison in a sea of secret police.

But there is one important difference between them. Poland, of which the Batory is a projection, is anchored permanently on land. The tragedy of the people of Poland as a whole is that they, unlike the crew of the Batory, cannot reach a foreign port.

My personal case is an example of what has happened to my country. The secret police, to sustain and to justify its existence, feeds on arrests and imprisonment. And since the great majority of people are innocent of crime—political or otherwise—the police must arrest and imprison innocent persons.

Some of them, such as the one who befriended me, undoubtedly detest and despise their profession. Yet it has become a matter of survival for them. The police system in Communist Poland (as in Communist Russia and other countries) has become a Frankenstein which has no choice but to consume innocent persons in order to survive.

Terrible Circle

It's all a vicious and terrible circle. As living and working conditions become worse, the people become more restless and discontented. The Communist regime becomes more alarmed. The secret police becomes bigger and bigger as the Communists look more and more to them for security. And as the police force increases so does the daily consumption of innocent victims.

Poland, as an agricultural country, may have been backward by advanced Western standards, but it always had food. The current shortage has come as a shock to a nation accustomed to eating well.

Rationing was abolished a year ago, and the public was told they could buy anything their heart desired. But what really happened was this: rationing by coupons, which was had enough, was replaced with rationing by the purse, which turned out to be much worse. Prices of essentials shot up by 300 per cent, while wages increased by 35 per cent. Housewives and husbands did not have the money to buy what they previously could get with coupons at fixed prices. The people of Poland are being pushed below the subsistence level by rising prices.

While wages are being held down, the worker is being pressed to produce more and more. Communist labor leaders keep calling meetings at which workers are invited to "pledge" to increase their output by various amounts — 100 per cent, 200 per cent or 300 per cent. Those who refuse to make any pledge naturally become suspect and are reported to the police.

Industrial "Superman"

As an example for others, these labor leaders produced a Polish version of a Russian Stakhanovite — a "superman" in any given field of industrial output. Poland's original Sta-khanovite was a coal miner called Pstrowsky. He was assigned to a superior seam, where he was able to increase output by 300 per cent with the help of a special team of assistants.

Nothing was said about the team of assistants but a great deal was said about the 300 per cent increase in output. All other Polish workers, to prove their patriotism, were urged to match this figure. Unfortunately for the Communist regime and its propaganda, Pstrowsky literally worked himself to death and the following rhyme circulated throughout the country: "If it's heaven you would see, A Pstrowsky worker you must be."

As the rhyme became more and more popular, this and other jokes about the regime became more and more dangerous to repeat because the Communist-controlled courts kept raising the length of prison term for those caught reciting them. A friend of mine, a high official in the Polish shipping administration, was overheard repeating a political joke and was sentenced to three years.

As a result, the safest course is to suffer in silence. It has even become dangerous to speak at home because Polish children are being encouraged to report any critical or "unpatriotic" remarks by their parents to their teachers. I know of several instances where children have provided evidence for the imprisonment of their parents.

Evidence in Complaints

The "evidence" might be a complaint by a mother against the bad quality of food and clothing at increasingly high prices; a complaint by a father against a Communist appeal to workers to "donate" a forthcoming national holiday by working without pay that day as an act of "patriotism"; a report that parents had been tuning in on broadcasts of the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Voice of America.

The children of Poland are being turned into a generation of informers. Adults, too, are being blackmailed into becoming agents of the Communist police. I know of a case of a man who was arrested recently for speeding. He was put in prison, without any trial or pretense of process of law, and left there for several days. Eventually he was called to a political police officer, who said he might have to stay in prison indefinitely unless he would be willing to "co-operate."

Asked what this would involve, he was told that he might cite names of several acquaintances who had been critical of the Communist regime and who had been listening in to foreign broadcasts. The man cited the names of several people he knew, choosing them at random, so as to regain his freedom—such as it is in a police state.

The terrible thing about this procedure, which seems to be typical of all Communist and totalitarian regimes, is that the police, by insisting that apprehended persons inform on others as the price of being released actually forces them to frame their friends and acquaintances with unfounded stories. Mr. Pilsudski may never have read a foreign newspaper and may never have listened to a foreign broadcast, yet unless an apprehended friend "confesses" that Mr. Pilsudski has, he may have to linger in prison indefinitely.

Thus Poland has become ridden with suspicion, distrust, police and prisons.

Deep Oppression

The sense of oppression becomes deeper as the Polish people lose hope of relief. I had heard rumors of strikes in the coal mines in 1952. More recently there have been rumors of uprisings in Poland, following those of East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

But the people of Poland, sandwiched between the Russian army in East Germany and the Russian army in Russia, have no faith in any internal uprising except on one condition—world war involving Russia and the United States. It would be foolish and reckless to ask the Polish people to undertake an uprising under any other conditions.

Even under conditions of world war, the Polish people staged their now famous Warsaw uprising and failed. But they would gamble again if given another opportunity, hoping that when the firing stopped again the Russians would have been driven back to their frontiers.

Poland suffers and waits. Its only comfort comes from knowing that freedom, dignity, honor and self-respect continue to exist in other parts of the world. By shortwave broadcasts and other means, I shall continue to contribute to this comfort by providing eyewitness evidence that civilization prevails in the West.

Only one player ever captained more than one Michigan State football team. He was Bob (Buck) McCurry, field leader in 1946, '47, and '48.

He spoke of nearly 200 atrocities created by the Germans in his community. He once held two Americans and two Canadians in sanctuary, and later these soldiers were severely beaten by the German SS Troops.

Class Reunion Pleasant Event

Forty-five persons attended the 20th year reunion of the Class of 1933, Gladstone High School, held Saturday evening at the Dells. Dinner was at 7:30.

James V. Schram served as toastmaster and Mrs. William (Laura Johnson) Beach presented in brief a recapitulation of the careers of the various classmen, particularly those unable to attend, but who had written.

Prizes were awarded for a variety of feats. Those to the man and woman coming the longest distance went to Robert Foster, Mountain View, Calif., and Mrs. Clarence (Mae Potvin) Ellison, Wyandotte, Mich. Mrs. Leander (Albina Swift) Smith received awards for having been married the longest, having the largest family and the youngest child, while Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vietzke received an award for being married the shortest time. Mrs. Vietzke is the former Erma Erickson.

Corsages were presented to the women and boutonnières to the men. They were made by Mrs. Ruth Hetrick whom many of the class had as their kindergarten teacher.

Mrs. Adrian (Aileen Flannery) Wormly, who at one time was with the WLS Barn Dance, and Robert Foster who writes a television column for a western newspaper, spoke briefly recounting some of the celebrities they have met in their work.

Group pictures were taken during the evening and dancing followed the after dinner program.

It was suggested that a similar event be held to mark the 25th year and the idea was received favorably.

Big Timber Wolf Seen By Trainmen

A crew of a Soo Line freight train operating on the Rapid River branch the latter part of last week observed a large timber wolf on the right-of-way.

It was in the vicinity of a point known as Ten-Mile near Baker Creek that the animal was observed and at first the railroaders thought it was a fair-sized deer only to discover later that it was a large timber wolf.

All five members of the crew saw the animal. In the crew were Elmer Green, engineer; Dick Hammond, fireman; Wesley G. Ward, conductor; and Kenneth Pickard and Robert Michéau, brakemen.

Part of the crew saw the animal from the front end, the others from the cupola of the caboose.

Many Canadians Are Using US-2

Canadian traffic through Manistique, an increasing factor in summer vacation business during the past few years, is again an important part of the community's transient resort trade this season, it is reported by Fred D. Heltman, executive secretary of the Top O' Lake Michigan Chamber of Commerce.

Thousands of Canadian cars, touring between eastern and western provinces, pass through Michigan during the summer and most of them follow US-2 through Manistique, Heltman said. Accommodations, supplies and restaurant and auto services they purchase in passing through constitute a sizeable part of the area's resort income, he pointed out.

Banks and many business places collect substantial quantities of Canadian currency every week, the C-C secretary stated.

"With Canadian people on the move every summer and with no road north of Lake Superior, the highways of Michigan provide the shortest route between eastern and western Canada," Heltman said. "Manistique is fortunate in being located on US-2, the peninsula's main artery of east-west traffic."

Heltman said that Canadian travel through Manistique also was relatively heavy in early spring and late fall, with many cars even passing through during the winter.

Cleveland C-C Denies Rumor About Gouging

A rumor that the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce had publicized Manistique as one of many Upper Peninsula communities which "kougied" tourists has been categorically denied by Cleveland chamber officials, it was reported yesterday by Fred D. Heltman, local C-C secretary.

As soon as the report reached Heltman he wrote to the Cleveland chamber president. A letter received yesterday from the chamber secretary denied that any such information had been distributed in Cleveland.

According to the rumor, Heltman said, only two communities in the entire peninsula were treating tourists fairly. Manistique was not one of them.

Shingleton Gas Station Entered Saturday Night

Manistique state police reported that the Shingleton Oil Company service station, Shingleton, was broken into Saturday night and about $70 worth of merchandise stolen.

Entrance to the building was gained by removal of a rear window.

Germfask-Seney Lions Win, 4-3, In Donkey Game

Germfask-Seney Lions defeated Manistique Lions, 4-3, in a donkey baseball game Sunday afternoon on the Seney diamond.

Before a large crowd members of the two clubs battled each other in a contest marked by balky donkeys, numerous spills, and aging muscles that groaned and creaked. Toward the end of the game several members of both clubs withdrew from combat and were replaced by youthful non-Lions who were held in reserve as the contest opened.

All seven markers were made on home runs. Manistique tallies were recorded by John Raffay, 1, and Bill Norton, 2.

Manistique's starting line-up follows: Nick Parents, p; Bill Norton, c; John Raffay, 1b; Dr. E. D. Brangan, 2b; Ronald Fiege, ss; Harold Plichta, 3b; Lawrence Gorsche, Billy Norton and Wayne Gundersen, fielders.

Plane Scares Mules, So Farmer Uses Gun

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP)—A man's gotta protect his interests! That's what a farmer near here did when a small plane buzzed his tobacco patch for the second time this week, causing his mules to run away.

The unidentified farmer consulted the sheriff first. When the plane returned, he picked up a shot gun and blasted away with both barrels at it.

The farmer retrieved his mules and resumed work. He hasn't been bothered since.

1702. PERRY HOMESTEAD, Wakefield, R.I.

AP News Features

This small, gambrel-roofed house was the birthplace of Oliver Hazard Perry, who won the great naval victory over the British on Lake Erie, and of his younger brother, Matthew Gilbraith Perry, who opened up the ports of Japan to the entire world. The house has been called "the house that launched a fleet of ships." The land upon which the old homestead stands, has been in the Perry family, since 1702, when Benjamin Perry came here from Sandwich, Mass. It was thoroughly restored in 1929, by Mrs. Perry Tiffany, wife of the last descendant-owner. It is located on the old Kingston Road at Rocky Brook, in Wakefield, Rhode Island and is open to visitors during the summer months. It contains many relics of historic interest.

The recent ruling by Charles E. Forsythe, Michigan's high school athletic association director, declaring ineligible two Escanaba athletes who participated in the Upper Michigan Junior Golf tournament here, introduced a somber note on the local sports scene. Forsythe declared ineligible David Hirn, basketball and golf letter winner at St. Joe, and Bill LeMire, football, basketball and golf letter winner at Escanaba High. Forsythe's ruling will remain in effect until the case is considered at a future meeting of the Executive Committee of the MHSAA.

Hirn and LeMire were among seven U. P. youths who won and accepted merchandise prizes in the tournament which was sponsored by the Daily Press and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Some of the other youths involved were not affected by the ruling as they had already graduated from high school.

Whether the ineligible status will be lifted depends now entirely on the Executive Committee. In posting notice of his ruling, Forsythe stated: "If the Executive Committee feels that there are extenuating circumstances on the part of the sponsor, then that will be its prerogative to decide what can be done."

Before entering tournament play, the youthful golfers were advised that the tournament was being conducted under regulations of the MHSAA and that their high school eligibility would not be jeopardized. The promoters published a statement to that effect in the newspaper story preceding the tournament.

There is no question in our mind that the boys accepted that statement in good faith. The MHSAA rules covering the subject are by no means simple, at the least to the average person. It seems only natural to us that the boys would accept the statement which was made by the adult sponsors of the tournament.

Actually, there is no general rule covering the acceptance of merchandise prizes by high school athletes. The rule has several exceptions and two recent changes—added for the first time for the 1952-53 season.

For instance, a high school athlete may accept merchandise awards, regardless of the value, for competing in a non-school bowling tournament. The sport of skating was added to that classification this year for the first time. However, if a high school athlete accepts merchandise for competing in boxing he becomes ineligible for school sports. And that is true in spite of the fact that high school boxing is banned in the state of Michigan.

All this is not intended as a criticism of the rules of the Michigan High School Athletic Association. It is, rather, to point out that there are complications to the rules which might not be perfectly understood by the youngsters. And it is also intended to point out that here are "extenuating circumstances" on the part of the sponsor as referred to by Forsythe in his notice of the ruling.

We also want to add that there was certainly no intent on the part of the sponsors to deceive either the boys or the MHSAA in regard to the merchandise prizes. It was simply that they did not have the proper understanding of the rule and they failed to check with the proper authorities before making their statement in the newspaper. It does not seem as though justice would be served if the athletes were penalized for this oversight.

By CHRIS EDMONDS
MILWAUKEE (AP)—"All we need is more heroes."

So chortled Charlie Grimm Monday night as his Milwaukee Braves frolicked into the clubhouse after mauling the New York Giants, 13-0. Eddie Mathews blasted a pair of home runs to lead the wrecking crew.

"This is a first division club, just like I said before," Grimm added. "Sure, we've been in a slump but we're bound to snap out of it."

"But a few more heroes, like that kid Mathews tonight, and we're back in business for sure."

Near Ruth's Pace

Mathews, the major league's home run leader for most of the year, is just off the pace set by Babe Ruth in his record 60 homer season of 1927. Ruth clouted two in his 95th game, just as Mathews did Monday night, only one day earlier—July 26—to boost his mark to 33, one ahead of the 21-year-old Milwaukee slugger.

Early in the season, when the Braves were burning up the National League, they operated on what amounted to "a hero a game" system. Then, all at once, the fireworks fizzled. Nothing worked and the club started sliding. When it came home Monday it was 7½ games behind pace-setting Brooklyn and only one-half game ahead of third place Philadelphia. Monday night's victory, before 28,380 fans who raised the season total at home to 893,427 to top the majors, chopped a half-game off the Dodgers' lead.

Pre-Game Talk

Before the game, Grimm was grim. He barred newspapermen from the clubhouse and said later he'd "talked to the boys a little." A good part of the lecture, he admitted, concerned a fracas in New York Saturday night involving shortstop Johnny Logan and Vern Bickford, veteran pitcher.

Grimm said the two players told him they'd had an argument and that Logan had popped Bickford once under one eye.

"It's all over now," Grimm said. "They're friends again. But I let the whole club know there was to be no more stuff like that going on. There are no fines, no suspensions, no punishments."

Dodgers Swing Into 13-Game Road Trip

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

If the Brooklyn Dodgers play close to .500 ball on their 13-game Western road trip opening today in Chicago, the home office will be sorely tempted to start having World Series tickets printed.

The Dodgers begin their third Western swing with a seven-game bulge over the Milwaukee Braves and the deep-rooted conviction that the only serious challenger between them and the pennant is fourth-place New York.

The Giants went West with high hopes, too, but they got off to a dreadful start Monday night in Milwaukee where the Braves buried them, 13-0.

Poor First Trip

Brooklyn won only three out of eight games on its first journey West. On their second trip the Dodgers won six and lost eight. But it was on that second tour that the Dodgers finished up with three straight over Milwaukee and moved into the league lead they've held ever since.

The Giants have played good ball in the West this season, winning 14 out of 21, but in Milwaukee, they've lost four out of six.

Rain Dampens Golf Tourney

Miss Johnson Medalist In Qualifying Round

Rain threw a damper on the Upper Michigan Women's Golf tournament at Highland Club this morning as first round matches got under way with a field of 43 competing.

At the turn, Escanaba's Carolyn Johnson was two down in her match with Jean McInnis, Soo, Ont., golfer. Other early results in the championship flight, upper bracket, had Irene Hogan one up after nine holes against Gladys Hansen. And Rosemary LeMire was one up on Helen Best, another Canadian Soo entry.

Rain began falling at Highland at 11:30 a. m. today and caught the championship flight on No. 6 hole. At 12:30 the flight moved off on the second nine.

Takes Qualifying Honors
Miss Johnson took medalist honors in yesterday's qualifying play, touring Highland's 18 holes in 90. The Escanaba girl was out in 42 and back in 48.

Miss Johnson was the only golfer in the field of 43 to crack 100 in the qualifying round. Helen Best, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Marie Wicklander of the host Highland Club came in with 102's. Jackie Specker, highly regarded Marquette golfer and Gladys Hansen of Highland had 103's.

In the 104 bracket were Marge LeMire, Escanaba Country Club, and Dorothy Coulter, Gladstone. Alice Aitese of Gladstone fired a 105.

Tournament action will continue through Thursday with the championship flight winding up with finals Thursday afternoon. The tournament banquet will be held at 7 tonight at the Highland clubhouse.

Detroit Lions Hold First Grid Drills

YPSILANTI (AP)—The big piles of muscle crunched against each other here today as Coach Buddy Parker warned his Detroit Lions, National Football League champs, that the going will get rougher.

The Lions, getting in shape for the renewal of the professional gridiron battles this fall and the upcoming All-Star game in Chicago held their first drill in the heavy rain Monday. No serious casualties were reported.

Sabucco Leaves Camp
However, Tino Sabucco, the former Wayne University and University of San Francisco fullback and onetime member of the San Francisco 49ers, left camp after the drills.

Sabucco had hoped to land the job of backstopping the "Old Sheriff," Pat Harder, in the backfield shock-spot.

Official word also came from Maryland that the deal which would have sent Baltimore Colt fullback Dick Hoerner to Detroit in exchange for Lion quarterback Tom Dubinski is off. Actually, for some time now, it has been known that Hoerner intended to hang up his cleats.

Roster At 32

Tigers On Road, Eye Sixth Place Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—Their sights set on sixth place in the American League, the Detroit Tigers arrived today to open an 18-game road trip with a night tussle against the Washington Senators.

The Tigers, who got out of the league basement during their just-completed home stand, now are one game ahead of the St. Louis Browns.

They trail sixth-place Philadelphia by seven full games, but hope to get within striking distance by the time they get to visiting the Athletics after stops at Washington and Boston.

Garver Gets Nod

Manager Fred Hutchinson picked Ned Garver to go after his seventh win of the year tonight. Garver, who has lost eight, will be opposed by Frank Shea, who has an 8-1 record.

Garver is one of several Detroit starters who has been getting in his licks as a relief pitcher in recent days.

Tiger fans in the last week or so could see a change in policy as far as pitching choices are concerned.

Boss Hutch used to go along with a pitcher for quite a while, apparently trying to give him the opportunity to work out of his own tight spots.

Starters Are Firemen
Hutchinson also used to keep his starting pitchers pretty well divided from his relievers.

But both situations have changed a bit.

Hutchinson has used Garver, Ted Gray, Steve Gromek and Billy Hoelt in relief roles, sometimes only a day or so after they started a game and frequently with considerable success.

Gromek finished a game for Gray when Ted tired against Washington last week, and Gray

Batting—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, hit two home runs, one with the bases loaded, to run his season's total to 32 in Milwaukee's 13-0 rout of New York. Odds Favor Escanaban In U.P. Men's Tourney

MARQUETTE—On the basis of past performances, the cards seem to be stacked in favor of an Escanaba golfer to win the 39th annual Upper Peninsula Men's Golf Championship here next month.

Not only is the defending champion, Harry Hogan, an Escanaban, but last year's runner-up, Elmer Swanson, also hails from the Delta County capital. As a matter of fact, Swan already has toured the Marquette Golf and Country Club Course this season in a scouting maneuver which netted him a three-under-par 69—the lowest reported score fired on the course this season.

Tradition also lends weight to Escanaba's position as the city favored to produce this year's champion. Escanabans have won no less than 14 of the 38 annual classics, giving that city a wide margin over all other Upper Peninsula communities in the tournament records. Escanaba's closest competitor is Menominee which has produced eight champions during the history of the tournament. Iron Mountain golfers have won the crown six times. Other titles went to golfers from Portage Lake, four; Ironwood, two, and Marquette, Ishpeming, St. Ignace and Michigan Tech, one each.

One Escanaba golfer, Donald Boyce, is the only competitor in tourney annals to win the championship four times. He turned the trick in 1925, 1928, 1929 and 1931. Hogan, the defender, and F. J. Oliver of Iron Mountain each won the title three times.

This year's championship tournament will be played Aug. 8 on the Marquette course, but earlier rounds will be played here and at Ishpeming's Wawonowin Golf Club, co-host for the tourney.

Eighteen-hole qualifying rounds will be played Thursday, Aug. 6. The championship flight will consist of the 32 low qualifiers. There probably will be at least five other 16-man flights.

All men players who are members of one of the 21 clubs affiliated with the Upper Peninsula Golf Association—including members of the Ashland, Wis., and Sault, Ontario, clubs—are eligible to enter the tournament. Entry blanks may be obtained at pro shops.

Stocks Will Race At Fairgrounds Tonight

The weekly stock car racing program at the State Fair track, postponed because of rain Saturday, will be staged tonight with time trials beginning at 8 and the races at 9.

With a perfect track and a large field of drivers entered, stock car fans can expect fast action and tough competition for prizes and points.

Attendance has been climbing steadily in recent weeks and Escanaba Racing Association officials expect one of the best crowds of the season tonight.

Trucks, Roberts Leading Hurlers

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil (Fire) Trucks and Robin Roberts boast the lowest earned run averages in the major leagues today.

Earned run averages compiled by The Associated Press show that the 34-year-old Trucks, who has won eight in a row since joining the Chicago White Sox in mid-June, tops the American League with a 2.50 earned run mark. He has given up only 45 earned runs in 162 innings.

Roberts, 26-year-old ace of the National League with a 2.28 slate, on 56 earned runs in 221 frames. Trucks has won 13 games and dropped only four.

Roberts also has the most victories, 17; most complete games, 24; most strikeouts, 116 and most shutouts, five.

Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians is second in the American League with a 2.66 earned run average in 14 triumphs against eight defeats. Southpaw Eddie Loe of the New York Yankees (10-2) is third at 2.74.

Hout Wilhelm of the New York Giants is runner-up to Roberts with a 2.34 mark on a 6-5 record, and lefthander Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves is third with 2.73.

Harnies Wrap Up Softball Crown

Harnischfeger pulled out of reach of the rest of the challengers for the American League softball title last night by besting Paper Mill 7-3. John Pierpont toed the slab for the winners with George Eastin chucking for Paper Mill. Joe Rieck's inside-the-park homer led Harnischfeger's attack at the plate.

In the other game last night the Merchants converted 11 hits to an 11-4 victory over Hyde. Ken Dufresne fired a five-hitter and Ed Gauthier led his mates at bat with a triple and two doubles. Bob Dufour also had three hits in four trips. Tom Brayak hurled for Hyde.

Layne Dropped From Heavyweight List

NEW YORK (AP)—Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah, has been dropped entirely from the latest list of heavyweight title contenders by Ring magazine.

Nat Fleischer, editor of the magazine, announced that Layne, once regarded as a title threat, had been removed from the top ten because of his loss to Earl Walls of Edmonton, Alberta.

Bob Baker of Pittsburgh fell to eighth place as the result of his knockout loss to Bob Satterfield.

Pearls Hunted In Upper Mississippi

McGREGOR, Iowa (AP)—They're hunting pearls again in the Upper Mississippi River near here after a lapse of nearly 40 years.

Clamming and pearl-hunting was a boom industry here in the 1890s, but the river was "clammed out" several years ago. Now, fishermen report the clams are coming back.

Two fishermen—Albert Langford and Norman Delphy—have reported finding large pearls. Langford sold his for $400, and Delphy's pearl brought $225.

Even if no pearls are found, the fishermen can always sell the clam shells. Pearl button factories pay 2½ cents a pound for them.

Pressure Squeeze:

Revision Of Treaty Provisions Is Hot Potato On Capitol Hill

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY WASHINGTON (CQ)—Should the American Constitution's treaty-making clauses be revised?

One of the hottest lobby battles of the current Congress is being fought over this question as the time for adjournment draws near. Groups are exerting pressure through a heavy volume of mail and personal calls.

On one side are persons and groups backing the Bricker resolution to limit the treaty-making powers of the President.

On the other, are citizens and organizations who feel that adoption of this measure would seriously hobble U. S. leadership in combating the threat of Communism.

Leading the fight for passage of the resolution by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) are several of its co-sponsors and a variety of business, legal, agricultural, veterans, and "patriotic" groups.

Bar Association Split

Included on this list are such organizations as the American Bar Association (although one of its sections is lined up with opponents), the Committee for Constitutional Government, the National Economic Council, Minute Women of the U. S. A., Daughters of the American Revolution, and others.

Most of these groups evidently share one common fear: that United Nations treaties will be used by "internationalists" in this country to promote socialism, place America into World Government, and impose a civil rights program on all states.

Speakeading the opposition are the Section on International and Comparative Law of the American Bar Association, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, Eisenhower Administration spokesmen, many prominent ministers, a minority group of the Senate Judiciary Committee, the American Association for the United Nations, Americans for Democratic Action, the Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO), the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, and others.

Wiley Censured

One of the leading Congressional opponents of the resolution has been Chairman Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He was censured June 13 by the Republican State Convention in Wisconsin for not supporting the Bricker measure, and urged to reconsider.

Although both sides are making a last-ditch effort to pass or defeat the measure a Congressional Quarterly survey indicates that most of the mail and personal contacts are coming from pro-Bricker forces.

According to one prominent member of the American Bar Association, its Committee on Peace and Law Through the United Nations is spending large sums of money on lobbying.

ABA members have reportedly conferred with Attorney General Herbert Brownell, who is trying to work out a compromise draft acceptable to both the Administration and to them.

Frank E. Holman, Seattle lawyer who is a past president of ABA is playing a key role in this lobby fight, by speaking and mailing literature in support of treaty-power revision.

ABA Men Quiz Witnesses When the Senate Judiciary Committee conducted hearings early this year on treaty-power amendment, Holman and members of the Committee on Peace and Law were permitted to sit alongside the Senators and interrogate witnesses.

Holman and the ABA Committee also reportedly held several meetings with Sen. Bricker, in an effort to develop a legislative draft acceptable to ABA. As amended and reported out by the Judiciary Committee June 15, the Bricker resolution is said to be "nearly identical" with an ABA draft. Holman also is reported to be helping coordinate the activities of other organizations now fighting for the Bricker amendment.

Most letters, pamphlets and personal contacts against the resolution are emanating from the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the American Association for the United Nations, and the two women's groups—the American Association of University Women and League of Women Voters.

Whatever coordination exists in strategy of the anti-Bricker-resolution groups, seems to be the work of AAUN, many of whose officers are officials or members of these various groups.

Drawn To Protect Rights

The measure over which this lobby battle is being waged, is designed to quiet fears that the President might make treaties abridging the rights of individual Americans. It would do this by rendering void any treaty "which conflicts with the Constitution," and requiring that no treaty become internal law without specific legislation.

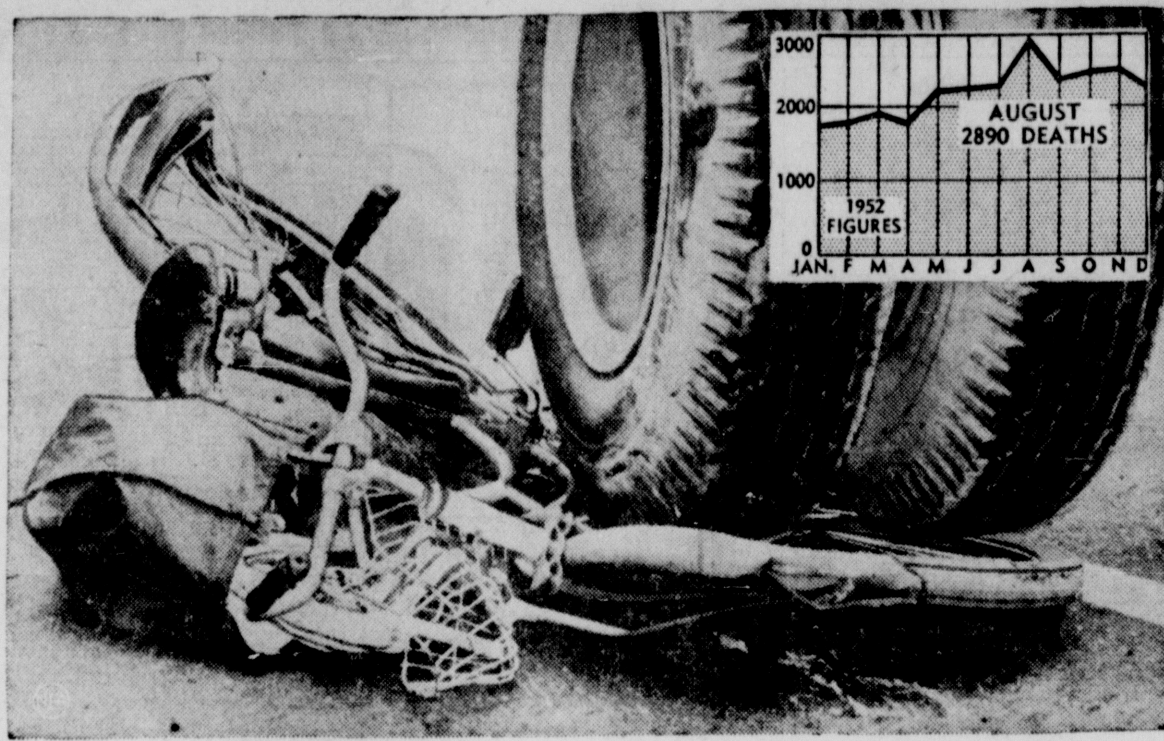

The resolution also would deny Congress legislative power under any treaty which it did not possess under the Constitution, and would subject executive and other agreements to regulation by Congress.

S. J. Res 1 was introduced Jan. 7 by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), with 61 co-sponsors. Two other Senators joined in the sponsorship later, providing the total of 64 required for Senate passage of a proposed Constitutional amendment.

The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the resolution, with amendments, June 15.

(If approved by the Senate, passage by two-thirds vote of the House also is required before it is submitted to the states; three-fourths of the states must then ratify the proposal within seven years for it to take effect).

However, some of the 64 Senators have indicated recently that

BEWARE OF AUGUST—August is the year's worst traffic month, according to the National Safety Council, and it will pay both pedestrian and driver to be extra careful. This photo was taken in West Berf, Wis., after a truck ran over a child riding a bicycle. Insert chart shows highway deaths by months for 1952, which reached their peak in August with 2890 deaths.

This was 28 per cent higher than the average 1952 month. And for every traffic death there were 35 injuries. Main reason for the increase is that more cars than usual travel the highways during August, but another factor is what the National Safety Council calls the "vacation attitude."

Chinese Farmers Opposed to Science

HONG KONG (AP)—Attempts by farm cadres in Red China to force scientific farming by ruler and book have aroused the peasants.

Copies of the Peiping People's Daily reaching Hong Kong told of these instances:

In some counties of the Southwest, despite a need for more grain, cadres have insisted that seeds be planted seven to eight inches apart.

In three counties of Szechwan province, cadres infuriated the peasants by bringing along rulers. After measuring, the cadres compelled the peasants to pull out seeds and replant them.

In Wuning county a Communist official demanded that peasants plow the way it said in books. So, the angry peasants turned the plow over to him. The ox ran away. The peasants still are laughing about the Communist's embarrassment.

Mousetraps Used To Explain Atom

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Carnegie Institute of Technology is using the mousetraps to explain the intricacies of atomic energy.

Enclosed in a plexi-glass case are 60 mousetraps (like atomic nuclei) with rubber corks on them (similar to neutrons in the atom nucleus). This represents the critical mass needed to get and keep the chain reaction going.

A rubber cork "triggers" the mousetrap-nuclei, dropping like an atom-smashing neutron through a hole in the case. Boom go the snapping traps, bouncing the corks to other traps and other corks, with the whole chain reacting like a slow-motion A-bomb.
